

PSYCHIC AWAKENING FACTION UPDATES

VERSION 1.5

The Psychic Awakening was a pivotal chapter in the narrative of the 41st Millennium, and it introduced new rules for every faction in Warhammer 40,000. Since that series was published, many factions have received updated Codexes that include or otherwise adapt this content. The chart below reflects which factions' Psychic Awakening rules have since been updated in this way. As always, you and your opponent can play using whichever rules you agree on, but we recommend using the most up-to-date rules for your faction as indicated below. Factions marked with a tick and coloured green indicate that the rules for them found in the Psychic Awakening books remain the most up-to-date and recommended content. Those marked with a cross and coloured red have since received a Codex in which more up-to-date rules can be found.

CAMPAIGN BOOKS AND FLASHPOINTS

WHICH FACTIONS' CAMPAIGN BOOK AND FLASHPOINT RULES ARE STILL UP TO DATE?

Up to date and recommended ✓

Codex now recommended ✗

The Charadon, Octarius and Nachmund campaign books, along with supporting White Dwarf articles – typically part of a Flashpoint – are all exciting chapters in the grim narrative of the 41st Millennium. Each publication also released new rules for several factions in Warhammer 40,000. Similar to the Psychic Awakening content on the previous page, you and your opponent can play using whichever rules you agree on, but we recommend using the most up-to-date rules for your faction as indicated below. Factions marked with a tick and coloured green indicate that the rules for them found in these campaign books and White Dwarf articles remain the most up-to-date and recommended content. Those marked with a cross and coloured red have since received a Codex in which more up-to-date rules can be found. Note that we have not listed any Crusade rules here – players are always free to continue using any or all Crusade rules that they have.
